Rock Cycle Diagram

The Rock Cycle diagram below is an easy-to-read model of how rocks can change over time.

Directions: Use the diagram above to answer the questions below.

1. What are the three classes of rocks?
2. Follow the arrow from sedimentary rock to metamorphic rock. What process is necessary to change a sedimentary rock to a metamorphic rock?

Name: _____

Starburst Rock Cycle

Directions: Fill in the rock cycle by drawing a picture of your starbursts in each box, filling in each blank, and labeling each arrow.

Draw a picture of your starbursts after melting them.

This is called _____

Draw your Starbursts the way they looked at the very beginning.

These are called _____ rocks. (Hint: Once upon a time these rocks were a very hot liquid under the earth but have cooled since then.)

Draw what your starbursts looked like after you added heat and pressure to them.

This is a _____ rock.

Draw a picture of your Starbursts after weathering them into smaller pieces.

These pieces are called _____

Draw what your starbursts looked like after you compacted and cemented all of the sediments together.

This is a _____ rock.

The Rock Cycle

The Rock Cycle is a geological concept that illustrates how the three main types of rock—sedimentary, metamorphic, & igneous—are related, by describing the conditions required to transform one type into another.

Use the word bank below, and the rock cycle diagram from page-2, to fill in the blanks in the following section on the three rock types and the rock cycle.

Sedimentary Rocks

When rocks and minerals are worn and broken down into small pieces by water, wind, or ice, the resulting particles are called _____. The movement of these eroded particles to a new location is called deposition, which often results in distinct _____ of sediments building up in a particular area. Sedimentary rocks form near the _____ but eventually, if sediments become compacted by _____ from the weight of water or overlying earth, they can solidify into rocks like limestones, sandstones, and shale.

Metamorphic Rocks

When a rock becomes buried deep _____ by natural geological processes, conditions can arise that will _____ the rock's chemistry, and turn it into a completely different kind of rock. Over much time, if enough _____ and _____ build up around the old rock, it will eventually transform into a new, metamorphic rock, like marble, quartzite, or slate.

Igneous Rocks

When rocks underground become exposed to the _____ heat resulting from geological processes occurring in the earth's interior, they can actually melt. Melted, or molten rock located below the ground level is called _____, but if melted rock becomes exposed on the earth's surface through volcanic activity it is called _____. When magma is able to cool and solidify underground, it forms _____ igneous rocks, like granite. When lava cools above ground, _____ igneous rocks, like basalt, obsidian, and pumice, are formed.

change lava time pressure
magma extrusive intense underground pressure intrusive layers heat surface sediments
